City Government

The City of Stillwater operates under a council-manager system. In this form of government, an elected city council is responsible for setting policy, passing ordinances and approving the City's budget. The mayor chairs meetings, authenticates documents and serves as the ceremonial head of the city. Council appoints the city manager, the city attorney and the municipal judge. As a resident, you are encouraged to be an active participant in local government.

Stillwater at a Glance

- Stillwater's total area is 28.4 square miles within 27.9 of that land and 0.5 water.

- General Obligation Bonding Rate is AA- from Standards & Poors.

The City of Stillwater maintains a website to provide information and assistance to the community at large. We are at: stillwater.org.

Still Pioneering

“Still Pioneering” is Stillwater’s tagline, and we, as the city government, have always worked by this motto as we strive to deliver services and value to our citizens. Still Pioneering reflects the spirit of Stillwater’s heritage and its constant quest for moving forward in education, business, living and city government.

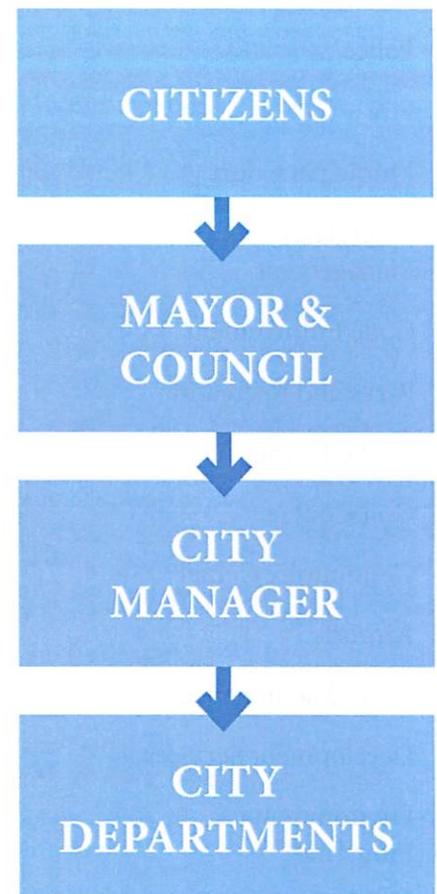

In order to keep moving forward, the City Council holds strategic planning sessions to evaluate and update our City’s priorities. These priorities may slightly change from year to year, but they always aim to articulate the community’s need for safe and livable neighborhoods; a sustainable and vibrant economy; efficient and responsive city services, utilities and infrastructure; and enhanced communications and community engagement.

Why Does the City Prepare a Budget?

A budget serves many purposes, which are listed as follows:

- Provides a flexible working plan for operating the City in the coming year.
- Converts the City’s long- and short-term plans and policies into services and programs.
- Establishes the amount of revenue expected to be available, which sets limitations on the amount of expenditures that can be supported.
- Establishes the costs of providing services and programs.
- Sets priorities to determine how the resources will be allocated among the services and programs our citizens expect and need.
- Provides a benchmark to which actual revenues and expenses can be compared.
- To comply with the Oklahoma Municipal Budget Act, 11 O.S. 17-201.

You are a part of this process. The City encourages comment and participation of residents. Public hearing(s) are held in March-April concerning the proposed budget for the next year. Please contact the City Manager’s Office or visit the website for the specific times of these meetings

The City's Workforce

City of Stillwater employees provide services to more than 47,000 residents over 28 square miles. The FY 2017 budget includes a total of 590.25 full-time and full-time equivalent positions with a net increase of 7 FTEs. Full-time employees have provided an average of 12 years of service to residents, business and visitors.

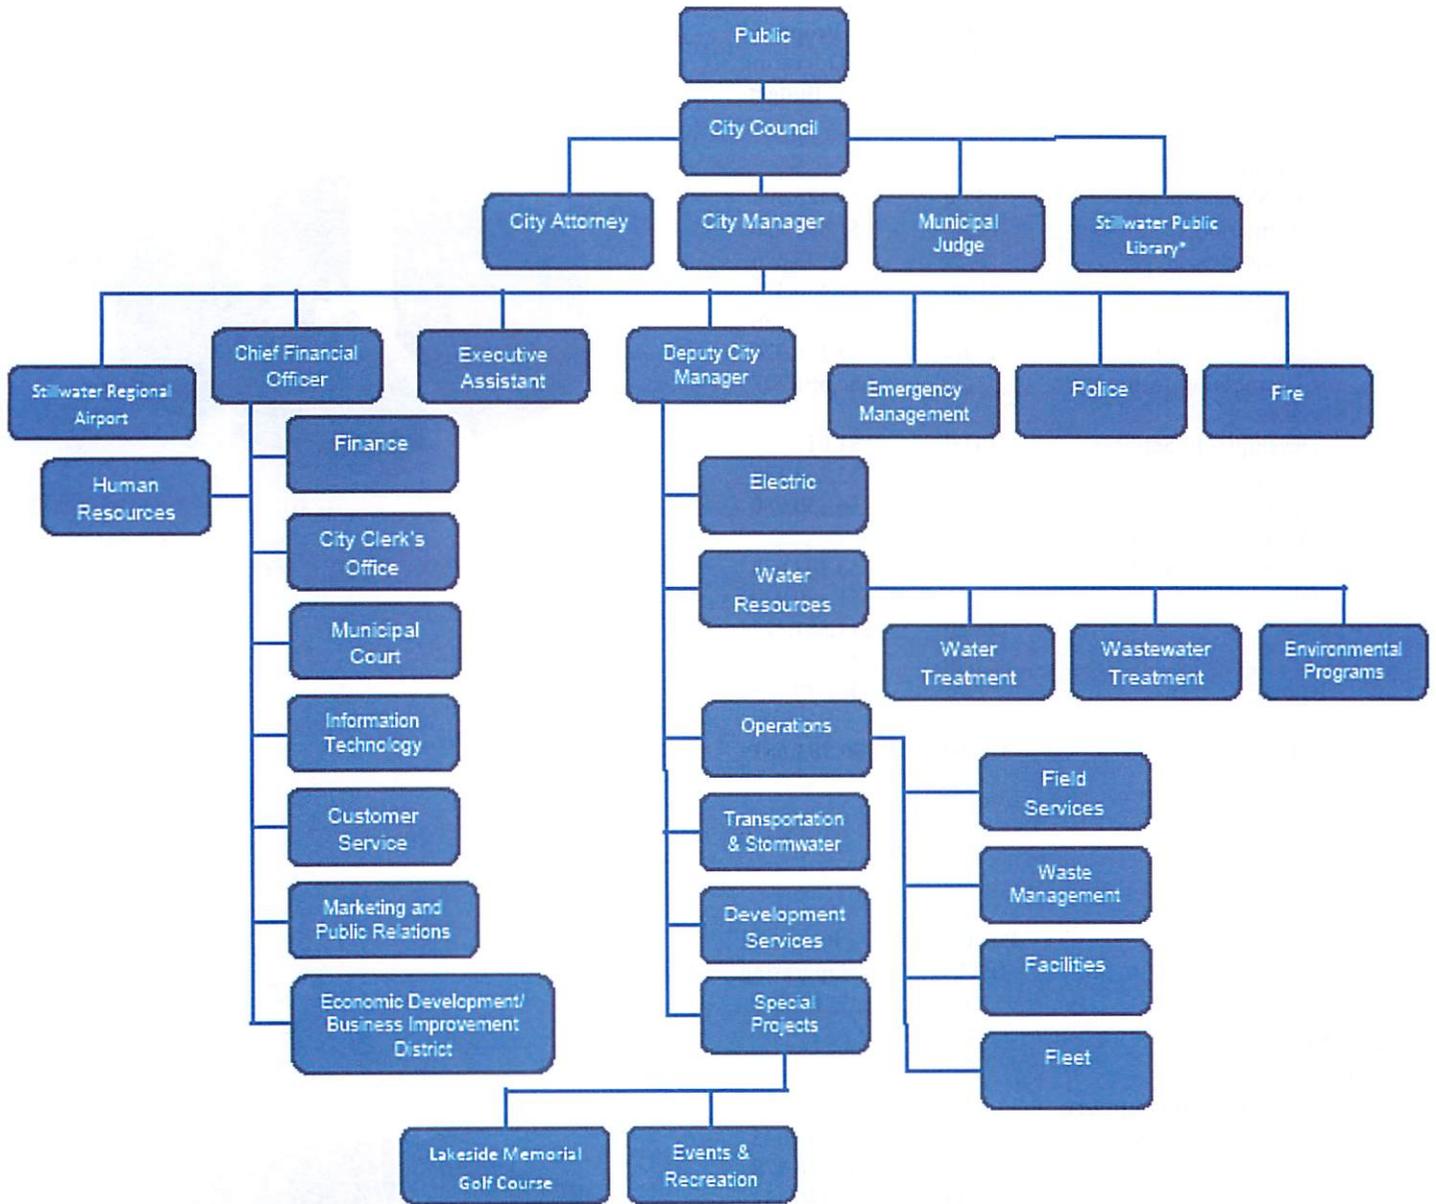

The chart below represents employees by work areas. Management and Support employees are employees working in areas such as Human Resources, Information Technology, Finance and other areas. The City has recently undergone a large reorganization of multiple divisions to provide increased efficiency and service to the public. This initiative, called Leap Forward, combines cross-training and increased skill sets for employees in the following areas: Field Services, Waste Management, Facilities Maintenance, Water Distribution and Wastewater Collection.
